It was the school holidays, which meant the Gang were all at home. During the school holidays they liked to go out on trips to fun places.

The Gang were discussing where they should go, "It is warm and sunny today. We should do something outdoors." said Bones.

"I really want to go to the zoo. I've heard there are some amazing animals that you can't see anywhere else." said Megabyte.

Everyone thought this was a good idea, so they all went to the zoo.

They were very excited to see all the different animals.

Big Eye was the first to spot something;
“Those animals have really big paws, even bigger teeth and one has lots of long hair around its neck.

I wonder what they are called?” he asked.

“Those are Lions, a family of Lions are called a pride. They come from Africa.” explained the Omega Twins, “The male Lions have manes around their necks but the females don’t.
They are often called the King of the Jungle.”

Next, the gang went to the Sealife Centre.
There were so many different types of underwater animals to see. They saw Sea Lions, Turtles and even a Shark.

“Look at that animal”, said Bones. “It has a fin on its back, and a blowhole. That must be a Dolphin!”

Before they left the Sea Life Centre they went to see the Penguins. They were black with white tummies.
They looked very funny as they waddled around.

After a great morning, it was time for lunch.
The Gang had made a picnic together earlier that day, packing all their favourite foods.

"I love having a picnic on a sunny day like this"
said Megabyte. The others nodded.
When they had finished they packed everything away, making sure they put all their rubbish in the bin.

After lunch the Gang decided to go into a big building called the Reptile House.

There were all sorts of animals and creepy crawlies in there. There were lizards, frogs and scary looking crocodiles.

“What’s that? It’s really long and doesn’t have any arms or legs,” asked the Omega Twins.

“That’s a snake!” said Bones,
“they can grow as long as a car.
That’s almost as big as me!”

"There's one more animal we need to see that is MUCH bigger than you Bones" said Brains.

This animal was huge! It had grey skin, really big ears, a long nose called a trunk and white tusks that looked like teeth!

"He must eat more food than I do!"
said Megabyte "I wonder what it is?"

"It's an Elephant." said Brains,
"Elephants are the biggest land animals in the world. Did you know that they eat lots and lots of vegetables just like us and look how big they are!"

After an exciting day at the zoo the Gang decided it was time to go home.
“I had so much fun today. We should go to places like the zoo for days out more often” said Bones.

The rest of the Gang agreed, they started talking about what they would do on their next school holiday.

Where do you like to go in your school holiday?
